April Wholesale Food Prices Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices of food and farm products declined in April for the first time in six months but the drop was more than offset by the biggest jump in industrial prices in 22 years, the government reported today.

The decrease in prices for processed foods and farm products was led by a 2.9 per cent drop in meat prices, apparently reflecting the effects of the recent nationwide consumers meat boycott and President Nixon's ceiling on meat prices.

But the prices on a broad range of industrial raw materials rose 1.4 per cent, the largest monthly increase since January 1961, said the Labor department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The industrial commodities index is regarded as a truer measure of inflation than food prices as it is less affected by seasonal changes.

Over-all, wholesale prices rose eight-tenths of one per cent in April, a significant jump but below the record 2.2 per cent increase in March.

Wholesale prices usually are later reflected in higher retail prices.

The increase was a little higher—one per cent—on a seasonally adjusted basis. Farm products and processed foods increased one-tenth of 1 per cent seasonally and industrial raw materials 1.3 per cent on that basis.

The President said Wednesday in tightening Phase 3 economic controls that price increases "will probably be higher than we would like for some months" but added that Americans "should be mature enough to recognize that there is no instant remedy for this problem."

The BLS said the wholesale price index rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 17.3 per cent over the past six months, sharpest six-month jump since the Korean War inflationary period of 1951.

"Prices in the last three months of the period rose more than in the first three months, reflecting an acceleration in prices of industrial commodities," the government said.

The April increase pushed the wholesale price index up to 130.7, meaning that it cost wholesalers on the average $30.70 more for goods worth $100 in the 1967 base period. This was 11.2 per cent above a year ago.

Among consumer finished goods—those ready for retail sale—food rose 1.4 per cent in April after seasonal adjustment, chiefly because of advances for fresh and dry fruits and vegetables, processed poultry, cereal and bakery products, and a less than seasonal decline for eggs, the report said.

Big increases in fuel prices led the jump in industrial commodities last month, with especially sharp increases for gasoline. Lumber and wood products also continued rising at a fast pace despite government controls.

In farm prices, livestock declined 5.3 per cent in April, but prices were still 37.6 per cent above a year ago; eggs moved down 5 per cent for the month but were up 66.2 per cent over the year; fruits and vegetables rose 11 per cent and were 49.7 per cent for the year.

Grains rose 3.8 per cent in April, 36.4 per cent above a year ago.

In processed foods, meats, poultry and fish averaged a 1.2 per cent drop in April but were 32 per cent above a year ago while manufactured animal feeds declined 8.6 per cent but remained 53.6 per cent higher over the previous year.

Haldeman, Ehrlichman Visit Chief Watergate Prosecutor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outgoing White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman visited chief Watergate prosecutor Earl Silbert today.

Haldeman has resigned as Nixon's chief of staff. Ehrlichman has quit as his chief domestic advisers. Both said at the time they resigned Monday that they had asked to talk to Silbert.

The pair was accompanied by their lawyer, John J. Wilson, who told newsmen, "We'll be here all day."

The two are scheduled to meet investigators from the Senate Watergate committee Friday.

The developments come amid reports that they face possible indictment for their role in an alleged White House coverup of the Watergate wiretapping.

Wednesday the White House realigned responsibilities because of their departure. Staff veterans will fill their vacancies temporarily, sources said. And the White House officially announced that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has been given an expanded role in forming domestic policy.

The Washington Evening Star reported that government investigators have been negotiating in secret with an attorney for ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III over whether to grant him immunity from prosecution in return for his testimony.

The testimony of the 33-year-old Dean is considered crucial for any prosecution of Haldeman and Ehrlichman. The government reportedly has sufficient information to file criminal charges against Dean on the basis of testimony provided by others.

On April 17, President Nixon said no administration official should be given immunity, but the statement is not legally binding.

Jeb Stuart Magruder, the No. 2 man in the Nixon re-election campaign, reportedly placed Dean and Mitchell at three meetings in 1972 at which the Watergate bugging was proposed. Magruder was at the federal courthouse today, apparently to give a deposition in the Watergate civil suits.

Meanwhile Wednesday, the Justice Department cited the Nixon campaign for failing to report a secret $200,000 cash gift from accused mutual-fund looter Robert L. Vesco.

The committee, which could be fined $3,000 on the alleged violation, denied it had broken the law. It also noted that Vesco's money was given back to him after the Securities and Exchange Commission sued him for siphoning $224 million from four overseas mutual funds.

The Justice Department didn't accuse any individuals of wrongdoing in its three-part information filed in federal court.

The Nixon campaign already has paid an $8,000 fine for failing to report money paid from a secret cash fund used to finance the Watergate bugging. No individuals were accused in that case either.

Three Position Papers Presented to County Court

The Sedalia-Pettis County League of Women Voters Thursday morning presented the county court three position papers on reassessment of the county, special road districts and the county nursing service.

The papers specifically urge that the services of the county nurses be expanded; that a professional appraisal firm be hired to re-evaluate property; and that all special road districts in the county be eliminated.

The reports were prepared by the League's committee on county government, headed by Mrs. Leanna Horn. They will be presented in detail at the League's annual meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Old Missouri Homestead.

The report on the Pettis County Nursing Service specifically urges that the expanded services include: a venereal disease program, prenatal care and education, dental care program, the hiring of a county sanitarian and a newspaper health hotline.

The paper also advocates a licensed practical nurse to be hired to provide home

Run-Away Cow

This Sedalia police officer, and one of several volunteers, restrain a cow that went on a wild 45-minute run through the downtown Sedalia area late Thursday morning. The 1,000-pound Hereford, owned by George Estes, Route 3, walked out of an open pen at the G and G Veterinary Hospital, 711 West Main, and began to wander through the streets. At one point it poked its head through the door at Chapman's Ladies' Ready-to-Wear store on Ohio, roamed around the Pettis County Courthouse lawn, the Kroger Family Center parking lot, dozens of residential backyards and finally Centennial Park, where it was captured. Four police cruisers, a motorcycle unit, the poundmaster and about 12 volunteers participated in the wild chase.

Papers Trial Judge Demands To Know What Hunt Told Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the Pentagon papers trial demanded to know today whether Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt has told a Washington, D.C., grand jury about his alleged role in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne, sternly directing the government to get him more information, said that if Hunt so testified, he wants the grand jury transcript of that testimony released.

In addition, the judge ordered the telephones of newspaper reporters were wiretapped in connection with the Pentagon papers investigation.

The Washington Post quoted sources Wednesday as saying Hunt and fellow conspirator G. Gordon Liddy had supervised the wiretapping of at least two New York Times reporters.

The judge said that Watergate prosecutor Earl Silbert has refused to tell the judge the source who first informed Silbert that Hunt and Liddy had allegedly burglarized the psychiatrist's office.

Byrne made his demand for information about Hunt's appearance after defense attorney Leonard Weinglass he said he had been informed that "Hunt appeared before the grand jury in Washington Wednesday and testified regarding the break-in."

Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, both former researchers on government projects for the Rand Corp., are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft for copying the Pentagon papers, a top secret study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Byrne says he wants more information on the Liddy-Hunt operations in order to determine whether those actions interfered with the defendants' constitutional rights to a fair trial. Byrne has expressed fears that "tainted evidence" obtained from the Liddy-Hunt work might have been used in the prosecution.

Byrne has stressed an urgent need to find out what papers were found in Hunt's

White House office and safe when they were searched by the FBI.

But the only documents surrendered by the government Wednesday were three FBI reports on recent interviews with White House aides John D. Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman and Bruce Kherli.

Ehrlichman's interview added only sparse details to a previous interview. Haldeman and Kherli professed no knowledge of Hunt's and Liddy's role in any White House probe of the Pentagon papers case or Ellsberg. They also said they don't know where reports from such a probe might be.

Ehrlichman, in his second FBI interview since reports of the 1971 burglary surfaced last week, said he believes "there must be papers covering investigation of Daniel Ellsberg" by Liddy and Hunt.

Ehrlichman said in an interview made public Tuesday that he knew about the psychiatrist's office burglary and of Liddy and Hunt's effort to produce a psychiatric profile of Ellsberg to show the defendant had "moral and emotional problems." Ehrlichman said the conspirators worked for the White House at the time.

Of the latest interview with Ehrlichman, conducted Tuesday, the FBI reported, "It has been over a year since Mr. Ehrlichman has seen anything on the Pentagon papers investigation...."

Spending Measures Approved by House

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House approved today a series of spending bills, including a $171.3 million appropriations bill to fund state higher education.

Also passed was a $4.5 million measure to pay for the expense of the legislature for the 1973-74 fiscal year.

The money for the legislature includes funds for increasing the staffs of the legislative research and fiscal affairs committees, which aid lawmakers in drawing up legislation.

The House has to finish work on all the appropriations, totaling about $2 billion, for the next fiscal year. The higher education spending proposals now go to the Senate.

The House also approved a resolution to change the state Constitution to bring it in line with U. S. Supreme Court rulings allowing 18-year-olds to vote.

Besides allowing the 18-year-old vote, the resolution reduces the state residency requirement from one year to 60 days, and the county residency requirement from 60 to 30 days.

The appropriations bill authorizes $107,111,517 from general revenue (state tax money) for the four campuses of the University of Missouri.

Wednesday, the House gave preliminary approval to the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and the Senate gave first-round approval to a bill lowering the age of majority—including voting rights—from 21 to 18.

The 84-74 approval of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) came after a full day of debate centered mainly on amendments that some representatives said would render the measure invalid.

They require the ERA to be submitted to a public vote, and require that if no such election is held or if the courts declare such action illegal, the ratification will become void.

The 18-year-old majority age bill was approved 22-8 after it was amended to exclude the purchase of alcoholic beverages by those under 21.

The Senate also defeated a bill to limit liability damages against hospitals to $100,000. Some senators criticized the bill as being special interest legislation.

The House gave first round approval to a resolution to change the state Constitution to allow local communities to levy a sales tax on gasoline to be used to support public mass transit systems.

In other action, the Senate passed a bill to revise the state's anti-trust law to tighten controls over price fixing, monopolies and restraint of trade.

In floor debate last week it was weakened by eliminating civil penalties and restricting the powers of the attorney general. The criminal penalty includes a maximum fine of $50,000.

Cambodia Bombing Funds Halt Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort to block $150 million in spending for Cambodia bombing and other Indochina operations was rejected 31 to 14 today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee also rejected, by voice vote, a proposed prohibition in a supplemental bill against use of any of its funds for American combat operations over Cambodia.

Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., said his amendment against the war-spending authority in a supplemental money bill would not cut off money for Cambodia, but would deny approval of it by Congress.

"What they're looking for is a stamp of approval for what they have done and what they may do," Addabbo said.

The committee is expected to approve the bill today. Addabbo said he will take the fight to the floor when the measure comes up, possibly next Tuesday.

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., said he would introduce today a resolution declaring it the sense of the Senate that "any actions by the United States armed forces in, over, or off the shores of Indochina are" contrary to the Constitution.

He planned a Senate speech declaring that continued bombing risks "breeding a whole new generation of American prisoners of war."

Senate Democrats, meanwhile, took a stand Wednesday against Congress' approval of any money for U.S. military activity in Cambodia.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said his was one of the few votes against the stand approved in a voice vote by the Senate Democratic Caucus.

Jackson said the bombing should be pursued in an effort to force the cease-fire throughout Indochina as per the Paris agreement of Jan. 27.

Jackson said any new money approved by Congress could be used only for air operations in Cambodia because Congress already has prohibited U.S. ground forces in Cambodia and Laos.

In a related development, a House subcommittee turned about-face Wednesday and approved a war-powers bill that would force a president to pull out of any U.S. military commitment he made abroad in 120 days unless Congress voted to authorize it.

Polly's Pointers

Difference Told Between the Two

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I think Lillian who asked about the best way to line a garment she was making, is confusing underlining and lining. Underlining is used to give body and add opaqueness to a lightweight or loosely woven fabric. Bonding has replaced much of the necessity for underlining. It is sewn to the material in the seam allowance and prior to the garment's construction. Lining is sewn separately, sometimes even cut from special pattern pieces, and then added prior to hemming. Lining conceals seams that may be scratchy (wool), fabrics like rayon that ravel easily or those that shed, like corduroy and velvet. Lining a garment makes it easier to slide into and the garment hangs better. Pattern envelopes usually suggest fabrics best suited for the style of the pattern and the guide sheet explains the construction best suited for the recommended fabrics. I think Lillian should more carefully read the envelope before she buys her fabric, and the construction sheet before she starts to work. The type of fabric, garment and personal preference determine whether the fabric should be underlined, lined, neither, or both. — SHARI

Tank Cannons Pound High-rise Apartment

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Tank cannons pounded high-rise apartment buildings Thursday and army-guerrilla fighting spread north of this shell-torn capital, as President Suleiman Franjeh vowed he would not tolerate a Palestinian "occupation army" in Lebanon.

A group of 500 guerrillas was reported battling massed army troops at a Palestinian refugee camp at Dbaye, five miles north of Beirut. Witnesses said some of the guerrillas had occupied a monastery near the camp to escape army mortar and tank fire.

Attempts to enforce a shaky cease-fire, negotiated before dawn and announced again at noon, appeared unsuccessful.

Heavy fighting and shell fire raged at the Tel Zatar refugee camp in the eastern sector of Beirut.

Casualty figures were not available for Thursday's fighting but Palestinian radio broadcasts said 22 guerrillas were killed and 99 wounded Wednesday. They said 10 to 13 Palestinian civilians died and an unknown number was wounded.

Lebanese casualties were not announced.

A curfew imposed Wednesday night was lifted for two hours to let the people shop for food and other necessities. But battles raged in two sectors of Lebanon's capital, and the wail of ambulance sirens mingled with the roar of shellfire.

Hospitals said they were under army orders not to report casualty figures, but a guerrilla spokesman said "both sides have suffered. Ambulances have been busy for two hours."

Army tanks and armored cars rumbled through streets littered with shell casings from the first day's fighting Wednesday. The heaviest concentrations of fire today were at the Tal Zaatar refugee camp on the northeast side of the city and a thickly populated residential area near the Sabra refugee camp and the Camille Chamoun stadium in the southwest sector.

The fighting also spread to Sidon, the Crusade city 24 miles south of Beirut. Guerrillas there attacked a telephone station, burned three cars and occupied the ruins of a monastery.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and other Arab heads of state appealed to President Suleiman Franjeh of Lebanon to stop the fighting, but it appeared both sides were unable or unwilling to enforce a cease-fire that had been announced at 2 a.m.

Reports from Damascus, the capital of neighboring Syria, said 7,000 troops of the Palestine Liberation Army in Syria had been alerted for possible intervention in Lebanon. The Palestinian force in Syria includes an armored brigade equipped with tanks that spearheaded Syria's unsuccessful intervention in Jordan's 1970 civil war against the guerrillas.

Premier Amin Hafez and guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat met during the night, and Beirut Radio said they agreed to a cease-fire and withdrawal of their troops to positions held prior to the outbreak of fighting Wednesday. But the pro-Palestinian newspaper Al Moharrer said the guerrillas intercepted a coded message to army units telling them to "start the second phase ... Wear battle garb."

The outbreak of fighting Wednesday raised the possibility of full-scale war between the army and the guerrillas, whose presence in the country is not welcomed by a sizable number of business-as-usual, neutralist-minded Lebanese.

Police Charge Six In Torture Death

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A 17-year-old boy was strapped to a table and tortured for a day before being murdered by a group of young Satan worshippers as a sacrifice, police say.

Police charged six young beach transients who are allegedly members of a Devil's coven with first-degree murder Wednesday in the death of Ross Michael Cochran of Fresno, Calif.

The youth was a major state witness in a suit to close a nearby private school as a "place of lewdness."

"They must have hated this kid like hell because they really tortured him," Police Chief Robert Palmer said.

Palmer said Cochran had been flogged with chains and stabbed with cut glass while tied to a black wooden table in the basement "altar room" of a ramshackle rooming house.

His mangled body, trussed with ropes, was found lying in a remote wooded area 15 miles southwest of here. Police said they couldn't determine whether he was killed during the alleged sacrifice or died where his body was found.

The six charged with murder were Kenneth M. Francis, 17, who gave his address as Pope Air Force Base, N.C.; Charles M. Paige, 21, and John Colbert, 18, who gave the rooming house as their only address; Deborah Ann Shook, 22, of Washington, N.J.; Cindy Black, 17, of Rexdale, Ont., Canada; and Howard Waellus, 19, of Detroit.

Cochran was among 78 students at the Green Valley School for troubled children in nearby Orange City who were made wards of the state when the institution was raided last February.

Authorities said Cochran had given depositions in the State's suit against the school, where students were allegedly subjected to cruel and unusual punishment and took part in open sexual conduct.

Police said Francis was also a student at the school until he ran away last week.

Cochran apparently was lured to the rooming house last Friday morning, police said, overpowered, tied up in a second-floor room and beaten for nearly five hours.

Mint Favors Hoover For Coin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Mint believes that the late FBI director J. Edgar Hoover — but not the 500th anniversary of the astronomer Copernicus — is worthy of a commemorative medal.

That position was taken Wednesday by Mint director Mary T. Brooks at a free-for-all hearing by a House Banking and Currency subcommittee on bills proposing special coins and commemorative medals.

Chairman Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., said a halt was called on production of special coins after so many were minted in the 1930s that "They turned into a racket."

With the clampdown on coins, emphasis shifted to commemorative medals sold at cost to sponsoring organizations which then resold them and used the profits for their causes. Protests from private medallic companies led to the adoption of the national historical significance guideline.

A special design for one side of coins, however, was recommended by the 1976 Bicentennial Commission. The Treasury went along to the extent of approving the plan for dollars and half-dollars only.

That isn't enough, numismatists told the subcommittee. John Jay Pittman of Rochester, N. Y., president of the American Numismatic Association, called for a special design for the reverse of all coins, or at least for the quarter in addition to the dollar and half-dollar.

Margo Russell, editor of Coin World Newspaper, also called for a broader bicentennial coinage and took occasion to say that the $10 charged by the mint for the special part-silver Eisenhower proof dollars is "gouging" and "inflationary."

Another problem for the subcommittee is a proposal to divert $1 of the profit from each Eisenhower proof dollar to Eisenhower College, a private institution in Seneca Falls, N. Y. It was opposed by some numismatists and several committee members who said they fear a troublesome precedent, but Mrs. Brooks said the Treasury would have no objection if Congress decided on the move.

Continue Blackout On Indian Talks

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Government negotiators met Indians holding Wounded Knee Wednesday, apparently to discuss civil rights issues in an effort to end the confrontation which began more than nine weeks ago.

Government spokesmen maintained a news blackout concerning negotiations with the American Indian Movement (AIM) occupation forces, who have held federal marshals and FBI personnel at bay since the takeover Feb. 27.

Richard Hellstern, deputy assistant U.S. attorney general, announced Tuesday that no questions would be answered concerning the substance of any negotiations or whether talks were being held.

Wednesday Hellstern refused to discuss the meeting between negotiators and occupation leaders. That meeting was confirmed by other government sources and involved Kent Frizzell, chief solicitor for the Department of Interior.

Frizzell had indicated that his role is to lead talks involving social issues, civil rights problems and tribal government questions, while Hellstern is to speak for the government on matters relating to the disarmament of the village.

Frizzell was chief negotiator when an agreement was signed April 5 that was to have ended the siege, but that was never implemented after misunderstandings over specifics in the document developed.

Frizzell had been acting as assistant U.S. attorney general and left following the signing of the agreement to attend hearings concerning his nomination as Interior Department solicitor.

Hellstern would not comment on the possibility that he too was scheduled to meet with militants Wednesday evening or Thursday, but he did say, "I don't expect the blackout to continue for very much longer."

He said the mother of Lawrence LaMonte visited the village Wednesday to discuss funeral arrangements for her

Zoning Change Is Asked by Company

A request by the Tallman Co., 1400 North Missouri, to rezone six recently-purchased lots immediately south of the firm's present location will be considered May 17 by the Sedalia Planning and Zoning Commission.

John St. Clair, president of the firm, said the request to rezone the land from R-1 (residential) to M-2 (manufacturing) is being made so that the adjoining property can be used as a site for possible future expansion by the firm.

Although indicating that the firm plans no expansion in the near future, St. Clair did say the lots, pending approval of the rezoning request, "would be spruced up considerably, weather permitting, by cutting shrubs and bushes and mowing grass."

Explosion Is Fatal For Woman

A Sedalia woman died Wednesday at the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia, 13 days after she was severely burned in an explosion caused by an undetermined flammable source at a house at 2201 South New York.

Mrs. Barbara Malcuit, 29, 1103 East Third, died at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Medical Center, where she had been on the critical list since her admittance April 19, suffering from third degree burns over 80 per cent of her body.

According to Fire Chief Willis Jabas, who investigated the incident, Mrs. Malcuit and her husband, Rene August Malcuit, were in their recently-rented home when the explosion occurred. Jabas theorized at the time that flammable fumes were ignited when they came into contact with the pilot light on a water heater and caused a minor explosion and "flash fire."

Mrs. Malcuit was reportedly working near the water heater at the time of the explosion while her husband was in an adjacent room. He was unable to reach her quickly, it was reported, since the force of the explosion blew the door shut between the rooms.

Jabas speculated at the time that cleaning fluid fumes might have been responsible for the explosion and resulting fire.

Mrs. Malcuit was born at Clinton, Aug. 5, 1943, the daughter of William Henry and Margaret Van Winkle McMillin.

She spent most of her life in Clinton, receiving her early education there. She moved to Sedalia three years ago.

Surviving besides her husband are three sons, Jerry Wayne Garrison, David Allen Donahue, of the home; Edwin Eugene Garrison, Kansas City; two daughters, Barbara Jean Garrison and Glenna Lee Garrison, Kansas City; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry McMillin, 508 South Engineer; and three brothers, Kenneth William McMillin, Clinton; Donald Richard McMillin and Douglas McMillin, both of Sedalia.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Ewing Funeral Home with the Rev. Orval F. Woolery officiating.

Mrs. Larry Flaughter, soloist, will be accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Waters at the organ.

Pallbearers will be Larry King, Stanley King, Lonnie King, Freddie Meyer, Glenn McCartney and Larry McCartney.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

The body is at the funeral home.

Abortion Measure Approved

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A so-called "conscience bill" allowing doctors, nurses and hospitals to refuse to participate in abortions if it is against their moral or religious principles was approved today by the Missouri House.

The bill now goes to the Senate. A similar measure has been approved by Congress.

Two bills to regulate abortions in Missouri are still alive on an informal calendar, but floor substitutes for them were defeated last week. One would allow abortions during the first three months of pregnancy.

Under another bill passed and sent to the Senate today, Missouri businesses would get a preference in bidding for state contracts for goods and services. It says state agencies must take into consideration maintenance after the contract is granted.

The bill also allows Missouri businesses to deduct the amount of taxes they would pay to the state from their bidding price, although the contract price would remain the same.

An overseas trade office for the promotion and export of Missouri products would be set up under another bill approved. Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps has recommended the office be in Brussels.

Mrs. Wilma Williams
Funeral services for Mrs. Wilma Naomi Williams, 63, 406 North Stewart, who died Tuesday, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Richard Leach officiating.

Burial will be in the Versailles Cemetery.

Relocation Bids For Henry County

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bernard McMenamy Contractor Inc., St. Charles, Mo., was the apparent low bidder Wednesday for five state highway relocations near the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir in Henry County.

The Army Corps of Engineers, Kansas City district office, said the McMenamy bid, one of seven, was $1,861,931. Government estimates for the work totaled $1,971,860.

The contract calls for construction of five miles of double bituminous road and includes one concrete bridge, two slab concrete bridges and one steel girder bridge.

Application For Funds Submitted

Pettis County special road districts and the county have formally applied for $168,110 in federal funds to replace or repair bridges, roads and culverts damaged by recent heavy rains and floods.

The report was prepared by the county court, County Engineer Ed Hall and road district representatives Wednesday morning at the courthouse. The application was submitted to a State Highway Department official the same afternoon, Presiding Judge Harry Walch said.

The federal flood relief requests were itemized as follows: bridge repair and replacement, $60,000; culvert repair and pipe, $24,650; gravel and repair of ditches, $32,210; Twelve Mile Special Road District, $45,000; low water crossings, $2,550; "washout" repair, $2,200; labor and trucking, $2,550.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said Sedalia did not apply for any of the federal aid because damage sustained by the city would not qualify under the application guidelines.

Walch said Thursday that the damage estimate "may be low" because "we were caught early." He said a Highway Department representative came to the courthouse about noon Wednesday and said he was to receive the estimates of damage then. Walch said he earlier was informed that the estimates had "to be in the mail by Friday."

No funds, if any, will be distributed until a team composed of federal, state and county officials survey the flood damage. Western District Judge John Blum Jr. said even though the estimates submitted Wednesday may be low, the federal and state inspectors will "make the final determination" of the amount of funding.

Walch said the repair projects will be paid for from non-earmarked funds in the county treasury until any federal funds are received.

The Watergate grand jury heard two key witnesses Wednesday. Former Nixon campaign deputy Jeb S. Magruder appeared for what is thought to be his first testimony since the scandal broke open. And E. Howard Hunt Jr., already convicted, sentenced and given immunity from further prosecution in the case—was brought from his jail cell in handcuffs for a repeat appearance.

Hunt testified for about two hours, and didn't speak to newsmen. Magruder testified for three hours, and said later he answered all questions without being granted immunity.

4-H Club Participates In Clean Up

IONIA — The Ionia Pioneer 4-H Club recently participated in an annual clean up day here. Sheetmetal and broken lumber at the Sherman Pritchard farm, west of Sedalia, was also removed by club members. Much of the debris had resulted from the April 20 tornado, it was reported.

The club sold the scrap metal and has decided to donate the proceeds to the Children's Therapy Center in Sedalia. Several loads of collected lumber will be burned later, it was reported.

Participating in the clean up efforts were Scott, Marlys, Lara and Barbara Peck, Lori, Mike and Sharon Johnson, Jackie, Kip, Douglas and Mary Woolery, Susie, Mike and Mark Pottorff, Lisa and Teresa Cushman, Clark and Nadine Kindel, Michelle Mitch, Vira Stratton, Sherman Pritchard and Kenny Craig.

Pickups, tractors and trailers were provided by Sherman Pritchard, Kenny Craig, Elmer Gardner, Earl Peck and Clark Kindel.

Miss Cole will receive a bachelor of science degree in May.

Correct Time

It took workers several days to accomplish it, but the Cincinnati City Hall clock high in its tower overlooking the downtown area is now on Eastern Daylight Time. It took some judicious use of oil and wrenches to free the large hour hand and move it ahead one hour. The four-faced clock presented the same problem on its other faces, taking workers most of a day to get the city on time. This view is from inside the clock face. (UPI)

International Effort To Stop Drug Pushers

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Life has become as dangerous for the international drug traffickers as for drug users, the United States says, thanks to increased cooperation from other countries.

"Throughout the world, governments are cooperating ... to an unprecedented extent ... Globally, the United Nations has assumed the leadership which the world expects" in the campaign against illicit narcotics, U.S. delegate Harvey R. Wellman told the social committee of the U.N. Economic and Social Council Wednesday.

Wellman said the United States and cooperating governments arrested more than twice as many traffickers and seized more than twice as much dope in 1972 as in 1971. Arrests totaled 19,000, seized contraband, 800 tons.

"Through joint action," Wellman said, "the United States and other governments have prosecuted and convicted prominent traffickers, broken up international trafficking rings and generally made the illicit trade as dangerous for the traffickers as the merchandise is for the drug users."

But he warned "there is no ground for complacency" because the volume and geographic area of drug abuse continue to grow.

Wellman said many countries have ratified treaties aimed at curbing production and shipment of illicit drugs, but the United Nations must now adopt programs which will help these nations comply with their international agreements.

He urged all nations to contribute regularly to the U.N. Fund for Drug Abuse Control and noted that the fund has collected less than $6 million in two years.

University Use Urged For Regional Planning

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The four-day Mid-America Conference on Regionalism wound up here Wednesday with a University of Missouri official urging delegates to use land grant universities for assistance in regional planning.

Dr. Carl Scheneman, vice president for extension, told some 170 representatives from 22 states and the District of Columbia that land grant institutions have the ability and responsibility to provide valuable aid for regional planners. "Research is needed not only on topics of regional planning but on legislation that stands in the way of these topics," Scheneman said. "Technical backups and research may help determine the success or failure of regionalism."

Regionalism can succeed "if local government can blend resources to meet the needs of citizenry along regional lines," Scheneman said, "and if regional planning commissions can make the transition to comprehensive planning."

"Otherwise, the new authorities (such as revenue sharing) which have started to trickle down will quickly gravitate back to Washington."

Conference workshops were devoted to discussing regionalism in terms of education, health and social services, law enforcement, manufacturing and retailing, public facilities and services and transportation.

Recommendations from the conference will be submitted to state and governmental bodies that have the primary responsibility for regional planning and development.

Represented at the conference were Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado, Montana, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, California, Ohio and Washington, D.C.

French Nuclear Tests Make Political Waves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The next French nuclear tests over the South Pacific, planned for May or June, are making political waves in some countries, but others around the area are keeping quiet for a change.
Tugboats in Australia won't tug French boats. Fishermen in Peru demand that the tests be scrapped.
Private yachts are reported sailing into the test zone. New Zealand is talking of sending a frigate to the site with a cabinet minister aboard and holding France responsible for any damage.

In Britain, a Labor member of Parliament said fallout from last year's French test came down on the descendants of the Bounty mutineers on Pitcairn Island.
Nobel Prize-winner Linus Pauling warned that the tests would increase abnormal births and cancer cases.

In Paris, a member of the Socialist opposition to the Gaullist government asked why the tests could not take place in France if they are as harmless as the government claims.
New Zealand and Australia plan to ask the International Court of Justice at The Hague for an injunction against the tests.
To all the protests, the French government replies firmly that the tests will go ahead as planned. Foreign Minister Michel Jobert said he was astonished at "orchestrated campaigns" to stir up public opinion in Australia and New Zealand.

The French claim the tests at the Mururoa Atoll endanger no one including the populations of the Pacific Basin countries.
The site is 4,000 miles from the Australian and South American coasts and 800 miles south-east of French Tahiti.

A spokesman for Peru's military government said it is convinced the nuclear blasts are damaging to marine life; fishing is a major element in the Peruvian economy. Some Peruvians also fear the explosions will increase the danger of earthquakes.
The nuclear weapon program has always been a matter of national pride in France. Deputy Armed Forces Minister Ay-mar Achille Fould told the National Assembly Wednesday that of all the factors in the government's decision to go ahead with tests this year, the most important was "the necessity to ensure national independence" for France.

Some governments that have been loud opponents of French testing in the past have been quiet so far this year.

Named Chairman

Mrs. William G. Ray, 1007 South Grand, has been named chairman of Sedalia's first arthritis fund-raising drive. May has been designated Arthritis Month here and plans are under way by the DECA club of SFCC to hold a "tag day" and "roadblock" on May 12 to raise funds. A victory march will be held May 27.

Arthritis Fund Drive Underway

The Eastern Missouri chapter of the American Arthritis Foundation began its first fund-raising drive in Sedalia Tuesday, with Mayor Jerry Jones signing a proclamation designating May as Arthritis Month here.

Mrs. William G. Ray is chairman of the drive in Pettis County and Tom Burdett is treasurer. The organization announced that the DECA club at State Fair Community College plans to hold a "road block" and "tag day" to assist in obtaining funds.

A door-to-door collection by the Future Homemakers of America has been concluded, Mrs. Ray said. The amount collected was not immediately known. A victory march will be held May 27.

Jones said that in addition to its toll in human suffering, arthritis causes a devastating drain on the economy. "When you add up the cost of medical care, lost wages, welfare payments and other expenses due to arthritis throughout the country, it comes to an annual economic loss of more than $3.6 million," he said.

He cited cutbacks in research funds for chronic diseases as one reason for supporting the drive here.

The Norwegian merchant fleet of some 1,400 ocean-going vessels totals nearly 20 million gross tons and ranks fourth in the world behind Liberia, Japan and Great Britain.

Patrol's Plane Plans Unlawful?

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Highway Patrol may have violated state constitutional provisions in plans to buy two airplanes, according to a copyrighted story Wednesday in the Jefferson City Post Tribune.

The story said part of the $75,000 the patrol has reserved to buy the planes comes from state highway funds, which the newspaper said is prohibited by law.

The patrol had announced plans to sell the 1965-model six-passenger Grand Commander aircraft and buy two smaller planes.

A recent report by state Auditor John Ashcroft showed the Commander had been used to transport state officials more of the time than it was used for patrol business.

The newspaper story said a check of the plane's flight records showed it was used "almost exclusively for transportation of state officials during the first three months of 1973."

A patrol spokesman said state officials and legislators who used the plane were assumed to be on state business and were not questioned.

The newspaper named 11 legislators, Gov. Christopher S. Bond and Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps as among the plane's users.

Teacher Strike Vote Falls Short

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Teachers of United School District 500 here failed to draw the required two-thirds majority on a strike vote Wednesday night, although a slight majority of the 1,200 in attendance at the meeting favored a work stoppage.

After the strike vote drew 586 favorable votes and 568 against, Bob Kralicek, executive director of the National Education Association of Kansas City, Kan., vowed the teachers will continue efforts to engage the school board "in meaningful negotiations, using every means available to them for as long as it takes."

The NEA represents some 1,570 teachers in the district and 1,047 yes votes would have been required to force a work stoppage in the continuing disagreement over the teacher contract expiring at the end of this school year.

"It may take years of self-discipline and sacrifice to achieve our goal," Kralicek said in a statement issued after the vote. "But we have come a long way and we don't intend to turn back."

"For years, teachers of Kansas City, Kan., have been frustrated by the arrogance of the board and Supt. O.L. Plucker, who refused to negotiate with teachers in good faith."

Kansas school boards, the local NEA director said, have a "distinct edge on teachers in legal power and are reluctant to yield one drop of authority to teachers."

Ann Landers

Drunken Husband Taught Her a Lot

Dear Ann Landers: I didn't agree with your statement that "some boozers go to bars not so much for the booze, but for the companionship that is missing at home." As a woman who has been married to one of the prime boozers of all time, I can tell you the truth is that these men want DRUNKEN companionship. A sober wife won't do.

Shortly after our marriage my husband began to have a drink before dinner. Then he started to have a few drinks after dinner as well. Before long he was getting a head start on the way home. A few months later he was showing up for dinner two hours late — making very little sense. When I told him I'd appreciate it if he'd come home on time so we could sit down and have a few drinks together, he called me "a good sport." But it didn't work. He'd get pie-eyed and I'd get sick to my stomach. So I quit it.

He started to go to the bars after work again and I decided to take one more shot at it. I agreed to meet him wherever he said after work and be a "companion." That lasted two weeks. I decided I didn't belong in a bar. I had a home, a family to raise, and my pride. I couldn't live like that. I took family counseling, joined Al-Anon, and this is what I learned:

You can't control a drinker by changing your lifestyle to match his. Joining him won't help him stop drinking. It will only encourage him to keep it up.

It's not your fault that he drinks. He'd like you to think it is, but don't fall for it. He didn't leave the house because you had a fight. He PICKED a fight so he'd have an excuse to leave.

If he tells you he isn't interested in sex because you're lousy in bed, don't believe it. A boozier can't perform 90 per cent of the time. It's easier to blame it on you than to admit the truth.

Don't hide the liquor. Don't pour it down the sink and beg him to quit drinking. Hand him his hat, open the door and tell him goodbye. Maybe he'll continue to drink and end up in the gutter. Or he just might hit bottom and decide to save himself. Whatever he decides, let him do it on his own. If you can't walk away from the marriage, walk away from his drinking. Make it HIS problem; not yours. — Voice Of Experience

Dear Voice: I hear you loud and clear. Your letter was twice as long as most I print in this space, but it was too good to cut and I am using every word.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband hasn't worked for over a year. He has gambled away our joint savings account and cashed in a life insurance policy which also went down the drain.

Here's the question: I read somewhere that a wife's earnings are her own. My husband says that when our income tax refund comes (about $400) I owe him half. I told him the entire amount belongs to me since he did not work this past year. He says he is entitled to half because I used him as a deduction by filing a joint return.

Do I owe him the money? — His, Ours Or Mine

Dear H.O. Or M.: In a state that has community property laws, your husband may well be entitled to half. If there are not community property laws the money might belong to you. Ask a lawyer.

Revenue Department Fires Seven Employees

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Revenue Department has fired seven auditors and field representatives but the revenue director says the dismissals are not directly connected to a federal investigation of possible widespread sales tax evasion.

The personnel changes were made, Revenue Director James R. Spradling said Wednesday, to tighten sales tax collection and to hire more competent employees.

Those dismissed were in the Kansas City office. The department's sales tax division had 24 auditors and field representatives.

More than 150 persons have been replaced, mostly in the Jefferson City headquarters and in fee offices, since Spradling took over as director in January. The department has about 1,600 employees. Spradling has estimated the uncollected sales tax at between $45 million and $100 million a year.

Auditors and field inspectors call on businesses to determine whether proper sales tax is being paid and to collect on delinquent accounts.

A special team from the U.S. Justice Department and a federal grand jury have been investigating reports that Revenue Department personnel received gifts from businesses for specifying a tax bill less than that actually owed.

The investigation has been concentrated in the Kansas City area.

Yard Competition Is Planned

A "Yard of the Month" contest, to run through May, June, and July, has been announced by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

With the theme, "Make Sedalia Beautiful — We Start at Home," the aim of the contest is to beautify Sedalia, according to Jake Siragusa, Chamber president.

Siragusa said that all yards within the corporate city limits will be eligible for the contest. The city will be divided into four districts. First and second place awards will be given in each district each month of the contest. The judges will be qualified out-of-town residents, he said.

Siragusa emphasized that while nominations will be accepted, every yard is taken into consideration. A yard does not have to be nominated to win the award. Nominations for the award will be taken at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The award will be in the form of a metal sign that will be posted in the winning yards. An award ribbon will also be given.

Judging will be based on an "evaluation scale" which will include relation of house to site, special features, shrubs and vines, flowers, maintenance, and the over-all relation of lawn, shrubbery and garden to each other.

The contest is sponsored by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with Sedalia garden clubs.

Reader Plagued By Scaly Skin

Dear Dr. Lamb — Will you please help me with a "skin problem" I have had for many years. I went to a skin specialist but all he did for me was to prescribe an ointment to use. I thought he should have given me some medication.

My skin is dry and scaly. Maybe there is something missing in my diet.

Dear Reader — I have no way of knowing what was in the ointment your doctor gave you. It probably contained something to help your skin. One factor which causes dry, scaly skin is the lack of skin moisture. The thickness and youthful characteristics of the skin are partially dependent upon its moisture. The whole purpose of "moisturizers" is to help the skin retain moisture and, thereby, its youthful characteristics.

The oils secreted by the skin normally form a film over the surface that prevents evaporation or loss of water. Excessive bathing, for example the person who bathes two or three times a day, removes these natural oils. This leads to more rapid drying. The same can be said about excessively dry air seen in heated homes in the winter. Any ointment which contains a petroleum base, such as ordinary Vaseline or oily substances, helps to replace the oily film over the surface of the skin, retain skin moisture, and prevent drying and scaling.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Just what is bursitis? How does it work and what causes it? The doctors say I have it, but the medicine they have given me hasn't done any good. I can move my arms freely, but they sure are sore and have terrible pains.

Dear Reader — Bursitis refers to inflammation of one or more bursae. The bursae are little sac-like structures around the joints and tendons. The material which makes up a bursa looks very much like the plastic material that is used for plastic bags and food containers. These sheets of material incapsulate the joints and tendons and contain fluid. In this way they cushion the joints and provide for smooth movement. When this membrane becomes inflamed, it affects the joints as pleurisy affects the chest. Inflammation of a bursa irritates nerve endings which in turn affects

Press and judiciary brought out truth

What can be said of a positive nature about the Watergate incident? There are at least two aspects of the whole episode that deserve further comment, and which President Nixon touched upon Monday night in his otherwise unremarkable television speech.

First, we should recognize that the Watergate affair is extraordinary only because it happened in democratic America. Had not the scandal come under the scrutiny of an independent judiciary and an aggressive free press, and its investigation been spurred on by our elected officials who were sensitive to the build-up of public opinion, the full dimensions of Watergate might well have remained hidden.

None of these resources exist under totalitarian regimes. Our sense of public outrage, and the means to do something about it, are luxuries that people of many nations do not enjoy.

More about the press. From the beginning of the Watergate incident administration spokesmen reacted with blanket denials to newsmen's questions, and even attacked newspapers, such as the Washington Post—which doggedly stuck with the story—for "shabby journalism" and "character assassination," in the words of Nixon's press secretary, Ron Ziegler.

When official denials began to crumble in the face of judicial and press revelations, Ziegler backed down from his earlier statements, which—in a bit of classic bureaucratic—he termed "inoperative." On Tuesday, at the suggestion of a reporter, the press secretary apologized to the Post.

Even Richard Nixon himself, whose love for the press is something less than ardent, slipped into the White House press room after his speech Monday night and told reporters to keep the heat on when it looks like the administration is off base.

If Watergate is a cause for shame, the performance of our free institutions, which brought the whole mess to light, is a cause for pride.

"STILL GOT YOUR HEART SET ON ONE OF THEM RANCH HOUSES?"

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — H. R. Haldeman, the ousted White House major domo, personally pulled the strings that opened the prison doors for ex-Teamster boss Jimmy Hoffa.

The incarcerated Hoffa had been promised he would be free by Thanksgiving 1970. This was considered so certain that his wife was permitted to telephone the happy news to him in the warden's office at Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary.

But for a year, the Justice Department balked at recommending Hoffa's release and the parole board turned him down twice. Not until ex-White House aide Murray Chotiner complained to Haldeman was action taken.

"It appears that nothing substantive has occurred," wrote Chotiner. "It is suggested that it should not take this long to perform if there is going to be any performance."

Chotiner's note to Haldeman was dated Nov. 3, 1971. By Christmas eve, Hoffa was out of prison. His sentence was commuted by President Nixon after hundreds of thousands of dollars had been contributed to the Nixon campaign and after Hoffa pledged to "deliver" the Teamsters Union into the Republican fold in 1972.

One source close to the Teamsters claimed the union had raised more than $750,000 for Nixon, most of it in cash, during the 1968 and 1972 campaigns. Much of the money came from Las Vegas gambling lords whose casinos were financed by the Teamsters' pension fund, swore our source.

Another source close to the President told us the amount was smaller. But all sources agreed that a huge cash collection was turned over to former Attorney General John Mitchell, in behalf of the Teamsters; by crime-connected Allen Dorfman.

Merry-go-round

Haldeman was man who sprung Hoffa

Mitchell flatly denied receiving any Teamsters contribution. "I was in the business of expanding money, not receiving it," he told us.

Dorfman has been linked by the New York Times to Mafia mobsters who allegedly have been trying to cut themselves into a Teamsters' medical program on the West Coast. The Times quoted from an FBI affidavit, which claimed Dorfman put Hoffa's successor as Teamsters president, Frank Fitzsimmons, together with the Mafia mobsters in California last February.

After his meetings with the mobsters, Fitzsimmons flew back to Washington with President Nixon on the presidential plane. Dorfman, meanwhile, began serving a prison term for pension fund fraud and jury tampering.

We have spent several weeks piecing together the story of Hoffa's release. Fitzsimmons made several approaches to Mitchell, beginning in mid-1969, to secure a parole for Hoffa. A promise of parole by Thanksgiving 1970, however, fell through.

A confidential file shows that Hoffa's son, James, made a new approach in early 1971 to Murray Chotiner who was identified by the code name, "Mr. Pajamas." Contrary to published reports, Chotiner received no contributions or fees but assisted Hoffa for political reasons. On April 11, a Hoffa family friend, Charles O'Brien, spoke to Hoffa by telephone. A Teamsters associate, who also got on the phone, reported in a confidential memo:

"I told him that I passed on all information concerning himself to Mr. Pajamas who was putting same in the proper place so that the decision makers could make evaluations... (Hoffa) then told me that if he were out, not only could he deliver the Teamsters Union for the Republican party in 1972 but that he could also deliver many construction trade unions as well. He told me that Mr. Fitzsimmons could not deliver anything without him."

The contact man in the Justice Department, thereafter, was Will Wilson, then chief of the Criminal Division. He told Chotiner on Aug. 10 that both the President and Mitchell wanted "to get the Hoffa matter out of their hair."

Two days later, Wilson promised that "everything either has or will be done by Aug. 20 to assist in the release of Hoffa," but warned it was best "not to move too rapidly (to avoid) premature stories in the press."

Still nothing happened. On Oct. 7, young Hoffa appealed in a letter to Mitchell. The letter quoted Wilson as saying that Mitchell had personally approved an "understanding that the Justice Department would make a recommendation for immediate release on parole. I specifically asked him whether my understanding was with him alone or whether it was with you and the administration. He assured me that it was with you."

Chotiner subsequently sent Haldeman a chronological account of the efforts to free Hoffa, along with a note suggesting "it should not take this long to perform if there is going to be any performance."

Footnote: The confidential file indicates that Hoffa suspected Mitchell and Fitzsimmons of deliberately holding up his release. Chotiner refused to comment, saying he "does not discuss matters involving the White House."

No light is shed by Nixon

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Friends — yes, friends — of President Nixon do not believe he advanced his personal cause or that of the presidency in any enduring way by his cool and lofty tale of the all-consuming Watergate affair.

Blossat

The tone was presidential. His comment bore the marks of the high quest for truth and justice befitting his office. It was reinforced by solid action in the earlier removals of four top administration men, including his two closest aides.

For the sake of the country and the office, even his Democratic adversaries wanted these very things from him. Yet, somehow, it all came to too little.

In the view of some who have known and liked him, what Mr. Nixon said lacked the impressive force of specific candor. It was presidential gold dust thrown in the eyes, or a glittering movie-set facade supported by shaky props.

He told the American people that, uncharacteristically, he in 1972 delegated most of his campaign decisions to others. But he did not say to whom, nor what crucial instructions he gave to his chosen surrogates.

Besides being uninformative at its heart, this assertion is not accurate. Observers and men who toiled in his campaigns can testify convincingly that he delegated heavy campaign authority in 1968 and perhaps before.

His newest utterance seeks, then, to perpetuate an unsupportable legend, Nixon the man with his eye constantly on every political gauge (but too busy with higher duties in 1972 to follow pattern).

Another gaping hole in the facade: Who repeatedly reassured him that his key people were not involved? Was it always the same man, or were there several?

The bare-bones sound of his announcement of legal counsel John Dean's resignation suggests this young man, who conducted the President's first inquiry into Watergate, may be marked for blame as an architect of a cover-up.

Still, Mr. Nixon left the way open for others to be touched, saying no one could be spared from the workings of justice and there would be no "whitewash" in the White House. Though his voice choked a bit, was there something of the cold shove in his final pat on the back for "closest friends and trusted aides" John Ehrlichman and H. R. (Bob) Haldeman?

Even as the President promised no whitewash, some of his key words had the pale cast of euphemism. He spoke of men whose zeal "exceeded their judgment" and whose good intentions in a cause they believed right edged easily into "shady" campaign activities.

How does this cover the alleged break-in by Nixon re-election agents at the office of the psychiatrist serving Daniel Ellsberg, defendant in the Pentagon papers case?

Indeed, as digested by some of his critical friends, this euphemistic language is judged to be far short of matching the magnitude of the offenses already revealed or hinted at in the Watergate espionage-sabotage case.

The President has seemed to "clean house," leaving his establishment painfully disorganized in the face of pending big events. But his basement and his attic still hold too many secrets which can cloud the fresh image he tried to paint.

A conservative view

Title III and the new educators

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — That indispensable publication, the Bulletin of the Council for Basic Education, took a look last month at certain experiments in ludicrous aspects, but Editor Mortimer Smith was not amused.

Kilpatrick

It appears that Massachusetts last year spent $4,800,000 in combined state and federal funds on ventures known in the field of education as "Title III projects." These are experiments intended to demonstrate "creative solutions to a diversity of educational problems." Massachusetts had some beauties.

At Danvers, for example, the local school board won approval for a $105,000 project identified as "Self-Direction Through Group Dynamics." The State Department of Education described the source as "teaching awareness and coping with social learning" and "training in outdoor tasks and group discussion skills."

Medford plunked $112,000 into "Arts for Intergroup Relations Education" (AFIRE), intended to instruct children from kindergarten through the eighth grade in "intergroup-interpersonal relations and the visual and performing arts," emphasizing such issues as "prejudices, groups, emotions, conflict and people change."

In Billerica, the taxpayers — state and federal — invested $91,600 in a project for 400 seventh graders, known as an "Experience with the New Humanities." The investment purchased "student-teacher rap sessions" at which the teachers obtained "the viewpoint of students with the urgency of what's happening now." The project, as Smith gravely notes, "has replaced geography in the school curriculum."

Springfield educators obtained a federal grant of $97,365, to which they added $43,065 in local funds, for "an interdisciplinary environmental study program" for fourth, fifth and sixth graders. The children, it appears, went to the city park, where they made "discovery hikes" and learned "climbing skills."

The Hamilton school district embarked upon a $123,800 project described boldly as "Project Adventure." Its purpose was "to transmit a sense that life should be entered into fully, actively and compassionately."

Smith observes that many of the Title III projects sounded suspiciously like old-fashioned field trips, in which children were carted by school bus to inspect the local newspaper plant, railway station, or the airport. Evidently, this is exactly what the Massachusetts educators were up to, but field trips no longer are known as field trips. In the new lexicon, a field trip is a child-centered on-site experience.

Smith has trouble with this lexicon. "One is not only depressed by the nature and the cost of the projects," he writes, "but by the quality of the prose in which they are described. Surely the authors of these descriptions, writing in a combination of educanto, governmentese and the terminology of psychology or pseudo-psychology, could be had up on charges of corrupting the language."

A glossary is required: "Teachers become resource persons, change-agents, cadre members, facilitators. Those who give children a list of items to look for in nature class are scavenger consultants. Kindergarten materials become manipulatives. The people in these projects never visit schools; like celestial beings, they make visitations... The degradation of prose reaches its nadir when we are told that the task of one team of teachers is to 'define and prioritize possible areas for improvement.'"

To be sure, as Smith emphasizes, some of the 46 projects in Massachusetts undoubtedly were useful. But if the experiments, taken as a whole, were fairly representative of Title III outlays across the nation, the projects can only be described as minimally productive demonstrations in multi-governmental inter-source relationships. Translation: Waste.

Gun Shot Wound Is Revealed

A 14-year-old Sedalian was in good condition Wednesday following the removal Monday of a .22 caliber rifle bullet that had been lodged under his scalp for about two months. The Democrat Capital learned Wednesday.

Mark Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, 3105 Skyline Drive, apparently received the injury in a shooting accident while he and two friends were fishing on a farm pond southeast of LaMonte. The property is owned by the youth's grandfather, Walter C. Cramer, 701 West Fourth.

According to Cramer, the accident occurred when a bullet fired by one of the youth's friends ricocheted off the pond water and embedded itself under Thompson's scalp.

According to Cramer, Thompson failed to tell his parents the true details of the incident, but the cause of the injury was finally disclosed when the wound became infected recently.

Dr. Donald Proctor, who removed the bullet, said the injury was not serious.

Mrs. Thompson told The Democrat-Capital that her son put hydrogen peroxide on the wound each morning without her knowledge. Proctor told her that action had kept the infection from causing what might have been serious complications.

Officers and directors were elected at the Lions Club meeting, at the Bothwell Hotel, Wednesday.

Elected were Bill Hall, president; C. Entertainment was provided by the New Score, a singing group from Smith-Cotton High School directed by Tom Trout.

Plan To Clean Water Tower

The inside of the water tower at Main and Massachusetts will soon be cleaned and sterilized as a result of action taken at Wednesday evening's Water Board meeting.

Wallace and Tiernan Co., Belleville, N.J., will be contracted to do the job for $660. Water department officials will first drain the tower and after the cleaning add higher concentrations of chlorinating chemical to sterilize the tank during refilling.

Department Manager Herb Taylor revealed the inside of the tower was last cleaned about 10 years ago.

The possibility of having Taylor and some other local man use a city fire hose and fire truck to perform the task was rejected because of insurance difficulties. Also, one board member said it would be unfortunate for a city employee to be injured while doing such a task.

The tank measures 75 feet in diameter and 35 feet in depth, it was learned. The bottom of the tank is 115 feet above ground.

L.C. Heurman, plant superintendent, revealed the pumping station has recorded 25.6 inches of moisture thus far in 1973. He explained that the average annual rainfall here is 35 to 40 inches and reported that Spring Fork Lake is still running over its spillway.

The board voted to approve purchasing nearly $30,000 of interest bearing bonds. The money was transferred to the surplus account and designated for construction purposes before the purchase. Several board members indicated the rate of return is excellent.

Heurman reported another repaired gear box for the pumping station was received April 25 and is now in operation. He added another gear box needing repairs was sent back to the manufacturer.

Taylor said the auditors are checking the department's books and will soon submit their report.

Truck Driver Gets Kidney Transplant

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A 39-year-old truck driver received a kidney transplant Wednesday, the third such case in Tulsa.

A 19-year-old unidentified donor who was a Neosho, Mo., native who died in Fayetteville, Ark., had donated the kidney.

William O. Meisenheimer was the recipient. The father of six children he has been unemployed from the Goodner Van Co. in Tulsa since his kidney difficulties developed.

Meisenheimer was reported in good condition Thursday.

The chain of events leading to the transplant began Tuesday when two kidneys were obtained from the accident victim. Tissue matching information from the kidneys went to a national computer system based in California. The computer turned up Meisenheimer as one of the best "matches" for the donated organ.

Tuesday evening Hillcrest Medical Center physicians were notified of the available kidney.

Reveal Elaborate Extortion Plot

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An elaborate extortion plot which forced a St. Louis bank president to turn over $50,000 because the bank official's wife was bound and gagged was revealed by FBI agents here Wednesday, although the incident occurred two days earlier.

William C. Dowd, the 60-year-old president of the Missouri State Bank and Trust Co., complied with orders given him by a man during a telephone conversation after a briefcase was delivered to Dowd's office Monday morning. The briefcase contained photographs showing Dowd's wife bound and gagged, police said.

Mrs. Mae Dowd, 65, told police a man forced his way into her Kirkwood, Mo., home Monday morning and tied her to a bed.

The man, who was armed with a pistol, took several snapshots of her and then apparently left, police said.

A short time later, a man matching the description of Mrs. Dowd's assailant, left a briefcase at Dowd's downtown office and he told the bank president's secretary that Dowd should examine its contents.

Dowd returned to the office following a meeting and found several photographs of his wife in the briefcase along with two of her rings.

A few minutes later, police said, Dowd received a second call from a man identified as "Mike Gallis" who told him he would have to hand over $50,000 if he ever wanted "to see your wife alive again."

The caller ordered Dowd to put the money in small bills in the briefcase and take it to a hotel five blocks away. Dowd obeyed after notifying FBI agents.

While standing in the hotel lobby, Dowd was called to a house telephone and was told to leave the briefcase in the hotel basement and return home. He did as he was told and found his wife unharmed.

When FBI agents went to the hotel basement the briefcase and the money were gone.

An agent said later that authorities "were in the vicinity" of the hotel when the money was left there, but declined to answer questions about how the extortionist managed to collect the briefcase and escape.

"The safety of the victim is of prime importance in these cases," the agent said. "At that point, we still did not have any knowledge of the whereabouts of his wife," he said.

AL Roundup

Orlando Cepeda's Grand Slam Powers Bosox, 6-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Anywhere Orlando Cepeda hangs his bat is home. Long a musclemen in the National League, the "Baby Bull" has found a home—and a new life—in the American League as a designated hitter with the Boston Red Sox.

Cepeda continued to flourish in his new surroundings with his sixth home run of the year, a grand slam job, that helped the Red Sox whip the Texas Rangers 6-2 Wednesday night.

Art Kusnyer doubled home the tie-breaking run in the 12th inning and then scored on Sandy Alomar's sacrifice fly as California defeated slumping Detroit. The Tigers have dropped seven of their last nine games.

Gene Tenace completed a four-run uprising in the 10th inning with a three-run homer as Oakland trimmed Milwaukee. Prior to Tenace's smash, Reggie Jackson had knocked in the go-ahead run with a fielders-choice bounce.

"I'm not a home run hitter," insisted Tenace, although the figures belie his statement. He's had seven so far this season.

Leo Cardenas, a former Minnesota shortstop, delivered a tie-breaking, two-run single as Cleveland scored four times in the 10th inning and handed Minnesota its fifth straight defeat.

Wilbur Wood pitched his third straight shutout with a six-hitter and became the major league's first six-game winner as Chicago beat Baltimore. Wood, 6-2, extended his scoreless inning streak to 28.

"Every homer feels good," said Cepeda about his dramatic shot that capped a five-run third inning. "But home runs don't mean anything unless you win."

In the other American League games, the Kansas City Royals trimmed the New York Yankees 4-3; the California Angels defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-3; the Oakland A's bested the Milwaukee Brewers 7-3 in 10 innings; the Cleveland Indians turned back the Minnesota Twins 8-4 in 10 innings and the Chicago White Sox blanked the Baltimore Orioles 4-0.

National League scores: Pittsburgh 2, San Francisco 1; Houston 9, Philadelphia 4; Cincinnati 6, New York 1; Montreal 3, Atlanta 2; Los Angeles (Messersmith 1-2), N. St. Louis (Cleveland 0-3) at San Diego (Greif 1-1), N. Francisco (Willoughby 2-1), N. Only games scheduled.

Cepeda has not only been hitting homers for Boston, he's been hitting for average, too. The brawny Cepeda, also known as "Cha Cha" for his love of bouncy music, is hitting at a hot .347 clip with 25 hits, four of them doubles. Cepeda has knocked in 17 runs and scored 12.

Need 11 Umpires

The Sedalia Little League Baseball organization is seeking umpires for the coming season. Interested persons should contact league president Richard Vansell at 826-8972 after 5 p.m.

... But Ump

Oakland Manager Dick Williams gestures as he argues with plate umpire Hank Morgenweck in the first inning of the A's-Brewers' game, Wednesday night in Milwaukee. Williams complained that Brewers' pitcher Jerry Bell was putting his hand to his mouth before pitching. Needless to say, he didn't win the argument; but he did play the game under protest. The A's went 10 innings and then shelled Milwaukee, 7-3. (UPI)

USA Takes 2-1 Lead

U.S. Team Out Muscles Russia

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—"They allow mayhem out there," Coach Bob Cousy said Wednesday night after his U.S. team easily whipped Russia 83-67 to take a 2-1 lead in their six-game exhibition basketball series.

Cousy obviously was pleased with the victory, but his Russian counterpart, Vladimir Kondrashin, was not. The coach refused to talk to the press after the game and refused to allow his players to.

Cousy's use of the term mayhem was considerable understatement to most observers of the rugged game. Elbows and hips flew abundantly, and there were nearly fights when tempers flared.

UCLA's Swen Nater, who was called a "dirty player" by Kondrashin earlier in the week, nearly tangled twice with Ivan Dvornii.

Each took exception to the other's conduct toward smaller players. Nater is 7 feet tall and weighs 250 pounds. Dvornii is 6-9½ and weighs 242.

Referee Martti Huhtamaki of Finland warned each player about his conduct several times.

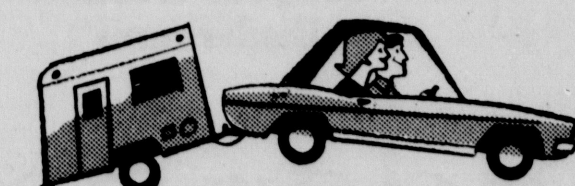

Aleksei Shukshin got a bloody nose in the first half, and he was taken out of the game with a leg injury after Nater knocked him down late in the second half. Sainikov was temporarily blinded after Jim Oxlley of the U.S. Army stuck a finger in his eye.

Cousy said the highly partisan crowd of more than 15,000 contributed to the victory: "It's tough for the Russians to play before crowds like that. We had the team ready to tear down the dressing room doors when they went out for the game, and the crowd kept the adrenalin pumping."

Hitting 55 per cent of their shots, the U.S. players ran up an 18-point advantage before slipping to a 13-point margin at halftime.

Knicks, Lakers' Series Resumes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The New York Knicks must conquer the mountain to beat the Los Angeles Lakers for the National Basketball Association championship—and they know it.

Towering Wilt Chamberlain, at 7-feet-1, proved the dominant factor in the opener won by the Lakers 115-112 over the Knicks, and he could be the same here tonight in the second game of the best-of-seven series.

Chamberlain's domination of the boards—with the aid of seven-footer Mel Counts—forced the Knicks into an outside shooting situation.

"With Counts and Chamberlain in the lineup, it really gives them a lot of versatility," commented Knick center Willis Reed, the NBA's most valuable player when New York beat the Lakers for the title three years ago.

"Wilt can come out and challenge our shooters and Counts can stay inside and rebound," said Reed.

Chamberlain blocked seven New York shots and had six assists, most for the Lakers, in the opening game. Reed, Jerry Lucas and Phil Jackson all worked against him, to little avail. At 36, Chamberlain led the league in rebounds with 1,084 during the regular season and hauled down 290 in the two opening playoff sets.

Against the Knicks, he hauled down 20 rebounds and forced the New Yorkers to the hazardous offense of shooting long. In the fourth period, Dave DeBusschere and Bill Bradley did hit from outside with regularity, so the Lakers, who led by 20 points to slightly more than a minute to go in the third quarter, had to hang on for the three-point triumph.

"The fact we closed to within three points makes no difference," commented DeBusschere. "The fact remains we are 0-1."

Mel Daniels
Availability
Is Unknown

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Indiana Pacers won't know until gametime whether center Mel Daniels will be able to play in tonight's third American Basketball Association championship playoff game against Kentucky.

Daniels injured his lower back in warmups before Monday night's game at Louisville, which the Colonels won, 114-102, to tie the best-of-7 series at one game apiece.

The 6-foot-9 center played 35 minutes that night despite the injury but his back stiffened after the game. He was still stiff and sore in practice Wednesday.

"We just won't know whether he can play until after he warms up," said Pacer Coach Bobby Leonard. "Obviously, if he can't it's going to be a long, long road for us."

If Daniels can't start, Leonard plans to move 6-9 Darnell Hillman into the middle against Kentucky's giant 7-2 Artis Gilmore, who accounted for 29 points, 26 rebounds and seven blocked shots Monday.

Gate Down

Royals End Yanks Four-game Streak

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees suffered a double loss Wednesday.

Not only did they have their four game winning streak snapped by Kansas City, 4-3, but the Bronx Bombers were also wallowed at the attendance gate by crosstown rivals, the New York Mets.

In only their second head-to-head attendance battle, the Mets, playing Cincinnati, outdrew the Yankees 19,163 to 7,604. The two teams will play coinciding home games again May 18, when the Mets face Pittsburgh and the Yankees meet Milwaukee.

The loss to Kansas City came after Ed Kirkpatrick drove in two runs with a controversial sixth-inning double down the first base line.

The extra base hit, which the Yankees insisted was foul, scored Amos Otis and John Mayberry. The hit came off Lindy McDaniel, who had replaced Yankee starter George Medich.

The Yankees could not get the middle of their batting order in gear as the fourth, fifth and sixth men in the lineup could not contribute a hit to the Yankees' 12 hit total.

Say Norton,
Ali Will Meet
In September

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Los Angeles is the probable site and Sept. 10 or 11 the likely date for a rematch between heavyweight fighters Muhammad Ali and Ken Norton, the San Diego Union said today.

The newspaper quoted informed sources as saying Lee Fruin, who promoted the first Ali-Norton fight here March 31, has "bailed out" of negotiations for a second fight.

Fruin's withdrawal would eliminate San Diego as a location. Other possibilities are New York, Las Vegas, Nev., and Houston.

Promoter Don Fraser was to meet with representatives of both sides in New York today in an attempt to sign the bout for the Forum in Inglewood, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Reds Bump Hard-Luck Seaver

Gibson Wins First; Pulls Back Muscle

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
It all started on Aug. 31, 1963, for Bob Gibson but Tom Seaver would like to know when it will all end.

Gibson tied a major league pitching record by making his 241st consecutive start and posted his first 1973 triumph as the St. Louis Cardinals edged the San Diego Padres 5-4 Wednesday night.

Meanwhile, the New York Mets got hard-luck Seaver his designated run but Cincinnati's Johnny Bench and Pete Rose unloaded on the suddenly homer-prone hurler and powered the Reds to a 6-1 victory over the New York Mets.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh nipped San Francisco 2-1, Los Angeles downed the Chicago Cubs 4-1, Houston trimmed Philadelphia 9-4 and Montreal shaded Atlanta 3-2.

The story of Seaver's season thus far as been home run, no run and one run. The opposition usually gets a home run or two while the punchless Mets settle for nothing at all or perhaps a token run. Wednesday night's run was only their second in Seaver's last four starts and they wasted a 13-strikeout performance by the hard-throwing right-hander, who fanned the side in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings. "He got 13 strikeouts, but he also got a big L in the loss column," gloated Cincinnati's Joe Morgan.

Amidst the strikeouts, the Reds scored in the fourth on a walk and Dave Concepcion's double and then Bench snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth with his fourth homer of the season on a 3-0 pitch.

A five-run third inning and some clutch relief pitching by Diego Segui enabled Gibson to post his initial 1973 triumph after three setbacks. However, the veteran hurler left after six innings when he strained a muscle in his lower back.

He turned a 5-3 lead over to Segui thanks to Lou Brock's two-run homer and a three-run shot by Jose Cruz, both off Clay Kirby. Segui yielded a San Diego run in the seventh but retired Nate Colbert, Clarence Gaston and Fred Kendall after the first two Padres reached safely in the ninth, notching the final two outs with runners at first and third.

Al Oliver's third-inning sacrifice fly and strong relief pitching by Jim Rooker and Dave Giusti enabled Pittsburgh to beat San Francisco and stop a six-game slide.

Willie Davis slugged two home runs, a double and a single and Don Sutton hurled a six-hitter as Los Angeles halted the Cubs. The Chicago run was unearned and Sutton has yielded only one earned run in his last 40 2-3 innings, lowering his earned run average to 1.59.

Bob Watson collected a home run and a single and drove in three runs as the red-hot Houston Astros ran their winning streak to five games and made it 10 wins in their last 12. Watson's solo homer in the sixth inning snapped a tie and started loser Jim Lonborg, 1-4, on his way to the bullpen.

Montreal's Mike Jorgensen rapped a pair of run-scoring singles off Atlanta's Pat Dobson, including the game-winning hit in the fifth inning. Ernie McNally went the route for the Expos, allowing nine hits.

Sub-Committee Receives Go-Ahead for Face-Lift

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee, suffering the ravages of age, may undergo a major face-lift within the next six months, F. Don Miller, executive director, said Wednesday.

The 52-year-old organization, under fire from some of the athletes it governs and tarnished by several mistakes at the Munich Olympics last summer, has given the go-ahead to a U.S.O.C. sub-committee to draw up ways to improve its image and its efficiency.

An initial report by the group headed by Miguel deCapriles, vice-president of the New York University, calls for closer cooperation between the U.S.O.C. board of directors and the 37 sports committees involved in over-all planning for the U.S.O.C. selection and training of U.S. teams for Olympic and Pan American Games competition.

For the first time in the history of the U.S.O.C., athletes will be represented on the board.

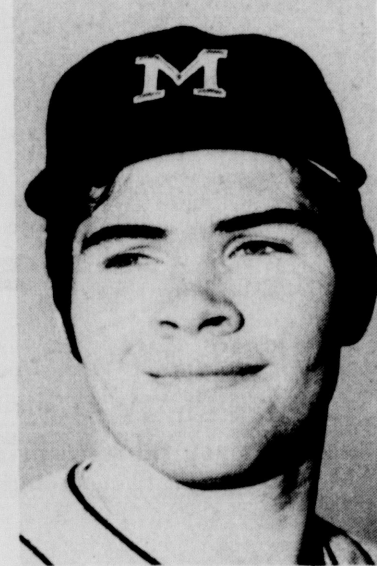

"It's no secret that the athlete needs to be listened to and this system of athlete representatives will give athletes a chance to take grievances directly to the Olympic Committee," said Capt. Micki King yesterday at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base.

Capt. King, who won the gold medal in the 3-meter springboard diving competition at the 1972 Munich Olympics, is one of seven athlete members-at-large on the board of directors.

The board members are Capt. King, who headed the selection committee; Frank Shorter, winner of the marathon in Munich last summer; Bill Toomey and Willie Davenport, 1968 gold medalists in the decathlon and high hurdles, respectively; Suzie Chaffee, 1968 women's alpine ski captain; Dr. Tenley Albright Gardner, 1956 figure skating champion, and Jesse Owens, 4-time gold medalist at the 1936 Berlin Olympics.

Phillies Trade Johnson For Former MU Player

Jack Bastable

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "If you got to go, it's good to go with a team that has a chance to win it all," said Deron Johnson.

The 33-year-old Johnson was dealt by the Philadelphia Phillies to the Oakland Athletics Wednesday for rookie third baseman Jack Bastable.

"It's a break for me," said Johnson, after learning he would join the A's, last year's World Series champions.

Johnson, who in 10 years as a major league player has been with the New York Yankees, Kansas City A's, Cincinnati, Atlanta and Philadelphia, expects a chance to make the Oakland team, rather than be used only as a designated hitter.

"They talked to me about being a designated hitter, but said they wanted to see me play first base," Johnson said.

Johnson was hitting .167 with one home run and five runs batted in in 12 games this season for the Phillies. He was sidelined most of last season with a nerve ailment in his left foot. In 1971, however, he hit 34 home runs and had 95 RBI.

Class-AA Baseball Playoffs

S-C Tigers Reach Sub-District Semis

SPRINGFIELD — The Smith-Cotton Tigers have moved into the Class-AA semifinals of the Missouri State High School Activities Association's sub-district baseball tournament with a 9-3 victory over Marshfield, Wednesday, here in Nichols Park.

S-C is scheduled to meet Springfield Glendale tonight at 7:30 p.m. Glendale posted a 3-0 victory over Lebanon in yesterday's first-round action.

In other games, Springfield Parkview, first-seeded in the eight-team, single-elimination tourney, whipped Camdenton, 5-2, and will take on cross-town rival Springfield Central, which ran up a 12-1 victory over Buffalo.

Tonight's two winners will clash in Meador Park for the sub-district title, Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Mike Arnold pitched the first four innings and was credited with the victory. He was relieved by Greg Bechtel in the fifth.

The Tigers picked up only six hits, including first baseman Kim Anderson's triple and Rick McRoy's double. A number of walks and errors enabled S-C to tally most of their runs.

Paul Kostopolus has been tabbed by coach "Skip" Schulz to get the start tonight. Twin brother Pete Kostopolus will be behind the plate.

Schulz has shaken up somewhat the outfield lineup for tonight's semifinal game. Duane Stratman will be in left field in Pete Kostopolus' normal position; Randy Pettit stays in center, with Arnold going into right.

The infield will remain the same with Anderson and McRoy at the corners (first and third respectively); Jim Sanders will be at short, with Greg Boehne at second.

Tonight's meeting between the Tigers and Glendale will be the second of the season. In their first outing at Liberty Park Stadium, Glendale posted a 10-1 victory.

"They beat us here," noted Schulz this morning, "and we're going down there with the idea of beating them in their own back yard."

Buffalo Bills Deal For Gehrke, Turner

BUFFALO (AP) — Running back Clem Turner and wide receiver Jack Gehrke, both four year veterans, have been acquired by the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League from the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed draft choice.

Bills' coach Lou Saban said Wednesday the Denver club had asked him not to disclose the draft pick he yielded, but he said it was "not very high."

Gehrke was a seventh-round draft choice of the Kansas City Chiefs in 1969 and was traded to Cincinnati before signing as a free agent with Denver in 1971. The 6-foot-1, 180-pound graduate of the University of Utah started most of the Broncos' games in that year, but a knee injury curtailed his play last year.

Impecunious Out With Injury

Kentucky Derby List Numbers 13

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — With a week-old injury forcing Impecunious to the sidelines, the entry of Secretariat and Angle Light headed a field of 13 entered today for the 99th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Secretariat, Meadow Stable's 1972 Horse of the Year, drew the No. 10 post position, while his stablemate, owned by Frank Whittaker, will go from the No. 2 slot in Saturday's $125,000-added classic.

Restless Jet, winner of the Everglades at Hialeah last winter for the Elkwood Stable, drew the pole position for the 1 1/4-mile Derby.

Outside of Angle Light, in order, will be Ed Elzemeyer's Warbucks, Sigmund Sommer's Sham, and the Indiana-bred Navajo, flying the colors of Jo Stevenson and Ray Stump.

Then will be Elmendorf Farms' Twice a Prince, Flamingo winner Our Native and the Florida Derby champion Royal and Regal, who races for Abraham I. Savin's Aisco Stable.

Further to the outside will be Lazy F Ranch's Forego, Secretariat, Joseph Kellman's Sheeky Greene, Arthur Appleton's My Gallant and Gottdank and Sechrest's Gold Bag.

The unlucky number in the field is the first in 13 years. The last time 13 horses went in America's most famous horse race was in 1960 when Venetian Way took all the marbles and the heavily favored Tompion was out of the money.

Missouri Fisherman Holds 2-ounce Edge

CHATTahoochee LAND ING, Ga. (AP) — Russell Cook of Missouri clings to a narrow edge as the second round of the $16,000 Seminole Lunker Bass Tournament continues today at Lake Seminole.

Cook of Branson, Mo., snatched a 10-bass string that weighed 26 pounds, 15 ounces Wednesday, putting him two ounces ahead of Ray Gresham of Florence, Ala., who had a 26-pound, 13-ounce catch.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Forty years ago Ted Lightner of New York was one of the five or six best players in the world. He still plays rubber bridge regularly and in our opinion is now the best octogenarian player anywhere. Through the years his game has been characterized by soundness rather than brilliance, but once in a while he comes up with a real barn-burner play. He hit on the happy choice of the nine of clubs opening against South's four-spade contract. East promptly collected three club tricks and it was up to Ted to discard on the third one. He thought quite a while and finally got rid of his ace of hearts. East looked surprised. A kibitzer almost fell off his chair. Dummy laughed uproariously, but declarer was strangely silent. He knew what was coming and he knew his contract was doomed. Sure enough, East led a fourth club and Lightner's queen of trumps was the setting trick. Was his play a lucky guess? Not at all. He was sure to beat the contract this way. He wasn't sure any other way.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers pay for seeds to plant crops this spring are record high, including increases of up to 100 per cent from a year ago for some types of hay and forage crops.

The Agriculture Department, in a survey of prices as of April 15, said the sharpest increase from a year earlier was for a forage crop seed, sericea lespedeza, which averaged $99.10 per 100 pounds. A year ago the seed sold for $44.70.

All kinds of field crop seeds listed by the Crop Reporting Board showed increase from a year ago with the exception of open-pollinated grain sorghum which remained the same, $15.20 per 100 pounds.

The more commonly used hybrid sorghum was $24.60 per hundred-weight, up from $23.30 a year ago.

Hybrid seed corn averaged $22.20 per bushel, compared with $21.50 a year earlier. Even in 1971, in the aftermath of corn blight damage the year before, seed corn cost farmers less, $21.90 per bushel.

Other seed prices at mid-April, compared with a year earlier, included:

Uncertified alfalfa varieties $75.80 per 100 pounds this spring and $50.90 last year; ladino clover $1.42 per pound and $1.37; sudangrass $21.90 per pound and $19.80; potatoes $4.92 per 100 pounds and $3.13; spring wheat $3.20 per bushel and $1.99; flax $6.35 per bushel and $3.79; peanuts $38.30 per 100 pounds and $37.10; soybeans $8.75 per bushel and $5.21; and cottonseed $18.30 per 100 pounds and $17.40.

WASHINGTON (AP) — New information on eating habits of Americans has brought a significant revision in the per capita consumption statistics for eggs and poultry meat, says the Agriculture Department.

The biggest change, based in part on new census information, is for the consumption of eggs, officials said in a Poultry and Egg Situation report published by the Economic Research Service.

Per capita egg consumption for 1969, for example, was revised downward from 318 eggs previously reported to 310. More recent data showed that per capita use last year was 307 eggs, compared with 317 reported last February.

The 1972 egg-eating rate was the lowest since the mid-1930s, the report said.

In 1960 Americans each ate an average of 334 eggs. The per capita rate includes eggs from all sources, shell types purchased in retail stores and those used by processors for such items as bakery goods and cake mixes.

Adjustments in consumption of poultry meat were small, the report said. Total chicken use, including broilers and other types, averaged a record of 42.9 pounds per person in 1972, compared with 41.4 in 1971. In 1960, Americans averaged 28 pounds of chicken per capita.

Turkey consumption rose to a record of 9.1 pounds last year, compared with 8.5 in 1971 and 6.1 pounds in 1960, the report showed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has enlisted the cooperation of two major camping groups to help control the spread of gypsy moths this summer.

The moths, considered a major destroyer of hardwood trees and other growth, frequently "hitchhike" into new areas on trailers and other recreational vehicles during the summer months.

Accordingly, the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service says, members of the National Campers and Hikers Association (NCHA) and the North American Family Camping Association (NAFCA) will serve as volunteers to watch for moths during the season.

The campers also will set traps baited and artificial sex lure in hopes of nabbing moths which stray into unfested areas. Some 60,000 traps are expected to be set by mid-June, officials said.

Gypsy moths have infested 11 northeastern states, including Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland where they stripped an estimated 1.3 million acres of trees.

The insects also have been found in the southeast and in the midwest where, officials say, they probably hitchhiked on vehicles.

Rubber Talks Held In Secret

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Negotiations between the B. F. Goodrich Co. and the United Rubber Workers union are continuing behind a wall of silence as the two sides work to avert a strike threatened for Monday night.

Neither side will comment on the talks, which are being conducted in Columbus, except to say that the negotiators are meeting.

Goodrich was picked as the union's second target after a settlement was reached last week with Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. The union says there are differences in the Goodrich contract talks, with job security a big issue that was not present in the Goodyear negotiations.

Agreement Reached By REA, Union

CHICAGO (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks announced early today that a tentative agreement has been reached with the REA Express Co. ending a nationwide strike after three hours.

A spokesman for the union said the union's president, C.L. Dennis, sent a telegram to all general and local chairmen Thursday informing them that the morning shift should return to work.

About 15,000 REA workers were affected by the strike.

Dennis said the proposed agreement contained "significant immediate improvement in wages" and retroactive pay to July 1, 1971, when the last contract expired.

In addition, Dennis said the new contract provided "absolute comparability in wages with the railroad and trucking industries through 1975."
